

Judge John C. Coughenour

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON AT SEATTLE

TARA C. ANDREWS,
Plaintiff,

v.

EQUIFAX INFORMATION SERVICES
LLC; EXPERIAN INFORMATION
SOLUTIONS INC.; and TRANS UNION
LLC,
Defendants.

Case No. 2:08-CV-00817-JJC

PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO FILE
OVERLENGTH BRIEF, AND ORDER

NOTE ON MOTION CALENDAR:
APRIL 13, 2010

Plaintiff Tara C. Andrews, by counsel, moves the Court pursuant to CR 7(f) for an order allowing plaintiff to file a memorandum in opposition to Equifax's Motions in Limine that is five pages longer than the 18 pages allowed by CR 7(e)(5) for Motions in Limine and opposition briefs.

Plaintiff makes this request for several reasons. First, Equifax's Motions are 19 pages long.

Second, Equifax submits 14 separate motions. That is a great amount of information that plaintiff must respond to.

1 Third, some of the motions address several items and raise different issues. For example,
 2 Motion IX seeks to exclude eight different exhibits. Some are credit reports, some are
 3 communications with a reseller of credit reports and one is a certificate from the Washington State
 4 Housing Finance Commission.

5 Fourth, Motion XIII seeks a court ruling that plaintiff cannot recover five different types of 6 damages that plaintiff claims were caused by Equifax's violations. Plaintiff intends to move to 7 strike Motion XIII as an improper and untimely dispositive motion, since it seeks to dispose of
 8 several of plaintiff's damages claims. Nevertheless, plaintiff must respond to these dispositive
 9 motions in the opposition brief. This will require additional pages. And CR 7(g) requires that the 10 motion to strike be included in the opposition brief. That will also add to the length of the brief.

11 For these reasons, plaintiff requests she be allowed to exceed the page limit by five pages.

12 Dated this 13th day of April 2010.
